Entrepreneurial Education Series

A Comprehensive Guide to Early-Stage Investment

Series Sponsor

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL.

Hyde Park Angels is the largest and most active angel group in the Midwest. With a membership of over 100 successful entrepreneurs, executives, and venture capitalists, the organization prides itself on providing critical strategic expertise to entrepreneurs and the entrepreneurial community. By leveraging the members' deep and broad knowledge of multiple industries and financial capital, Hyde Park Angels has driven multiple exits and invested millions of dollars in over 30 portfolio companies that have created over 680 jobs in the Midwest since 2007.

1871

The flagship project of the Chicagoland Entrepreneurial Center, 1871 is the home of more than 325 early-stage, high-growth digital startups. The 75,000 square foot facility in The Merchandise Mart is the headquarters of Techstars Chicago and Impact Engine, half a dozen industry-specific incubators, several emerging tech talent schools, and the Illinois Science and Technology Coalition. It is also home to offices for numerous Chicago-based VCs, Northwestern University, University of Illinois, University of Chicago, Illinois Institute of Technology, and DeVry.

Hyde Park Angels is bringing together successful, influential entrepreneurs and investors to teach you everything you need to know about early-stage investment. Attend all four programs and walk away with a thorough understanding of the early-stage investment cycle from start to finish or pick and choose programs to supplement existing knowledge. In either case, you will have the chance to learn the pros and cons of raising a round, the mechanics of doing a deal, how to grow your business through corporate partnerships, and how to manage relationships with different advisors and investors.

Each program begins with a 30-minute networking session. Howard Tullman will then introduce a 1.5 hour panel moderated by Peter Wilkins, which concludes with a Q&A.

HOST:
Howard Tullman
CEO, 1871

MODERATOR:
Peter Wilkins
Managing Director,
Hyde Park Angels

Bonus Workshops: We are hosting four intimate workshops that take deeper dives into the topics covered in the series at key innovation hubs across the community. Workshops will include a 20-minute presentation and a 40-minute open discussion. Dates and locations to be announced.

How We Operate

Hyde Park Angels uses financial and human capital to drive success for entrepreneurs and their companies. Our 100+ high-profile accredited investors have deep expertise in a variety of industries and a genuine commitment to the Midwest's entrepreneurial ecosystem. We provide strategic advice and coaching as well as capital. We also connect our companies with our industry partners and sponsors, which provide valuable insight, expertise, and support. Hyde Park Angels does not invest in companies outside the Midwest or in the ideation or prototype stages. We invest in scalable companies led by talented management teams with market-ready solutions that solve big problems or create unique value in game-changing ways.
